

Grant Remund Barns

This complex of bright red barns make a mighty pretty picture against the backdrop of mountains northwest of Midway. They belong to the Grant Remund family. A good view of all of them is from the top of Memorial Hill or looking northwest from River Road about 500 North. The actual address is 350 East 600 North in Midway. The picture is just a part of the a-frame barns belonging to the Remunds. Fred Remund, Sr. built a log hay barn at that address originally, which was later taken down. He was Grant Remund's grandfather, a cobbler by trade. Fred Remund, Junior, also lived there, and now it is the summer home of Grant and Iva Don Remund, wintering in St. George. —Source: Grant and Roy Remund

These barns are located near 380 East 600 N, in Midway

Mandatory Health Effects Language: The United States

Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that the presence of total coliforms is a possible health concern. Total coliforms are common in the environment and are generally not harmful themselves. The presence of these bacteria in drinking water, however, generally is a result of a problem with water treatment or the pipes which distribute the water, and indicates that the water may be contaminated with organisms that can cause disease. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea, and possibly jaundice, and any associated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with disease-causing organisms in drinking water, but also may be caused by a number of factors other than your drinking water. EPA has set an enforceable drinking water standard for total coliforms to reduce the risk of these
